

Los Angeles Times

latimes.com

ALL THE RAGE

THE IMAGE STAFF MUSES ON THE CULTURE OF KEEPING UP APPEARANCES IN HOLLYWOOD AND BEYOND

Eyebrow implants for people with $5,000 to burn

Eyebrow trends are as fickle as hemlines. One minute, they must be thin and arched like rainbows. And just when you finish plucking, the fashion magazines proclaim that thick, bushy brows are a must. If you do care -- and frankly, don't we all have bigger worries? -- there's the new eyebrow implant.

Yes, for $3,500 to $5,000, Bosley hair restoration specialists will transplant Brooke Shields-worthy filler hair above those peepers. (Wait -- did you just spurt soda out of your nose, too?) They can fill in bald spots and create a better shape, too.

What's next? A macho mustache transplant for wimpy dudes?

-- Monica Corcoran

Photos: Actress Brooke Shields above left; actor Ken Davitian, above right. Photo credits: Getty Images