

KNIFESTYLES OF THE RICH & FAMOUS

2006

Jennie Garth isn't in high school anymore, but you can't blame the former Beverly Hills, 90210 star for trying to look like she is! The 44-year-old seems to be recapturing her teenage glow by turning to Botox and fillers, experts tell Life & Style. Dr. Kally Papantoniou, who doesn't treat the actress, credits filler for enhancing the mom of three's forehead, cheeks and lips. "This has given her a youthful fullness," praises the dermatologist. Dr. Neil Sadick agrees, but suggests Jennie lighten up on the Botox because it's causing her brows to arch and her face to freeze. "I would favor more conservative facial shaping, using more strategically placed filler — and less of it," says Dr. Sadick, who is not Jennie's doc. Plastic surgeon Dr. John Zannis, who also has not treated the star, believes that lip filler may have plumped up her mouth and reduced lines, to great effect. While Jennie has admitted to Botox injections in the past, she credits her sugar-free diet and beauty regimen for her ageless visage. "I take really good care of my skin," she says, "and never go to bed with makeup on. Ever!" LS

"She's got minimal facial expression."

— Dr. Neil Sadick

Jennie's

NOW

FOREHEAD

"Her brows have an elevated arch, likely from Botox," says Dr. Papantoniou, pointing to Jennie's smooth forehead as further proof. Expense: $450 to $1K every three months.

EYES

Dr. Zannis cites the improvement in the star's under-eye area as evidence of a filler like Restylane "to improve her sunken look." Price tag: $1.2K annually.

LIPS

The subtle change in Jennie's lips is due to filler, says Dr. Papantoniou. Cost is $600 to $1.2K every six to nine months, "depending on how many syringes are required," explains the doc.

CHIN

"Jennie's jawline and chin look more rounded," observes Dr. Sadick. He thinks the change is the result of filler injections, which cost $600 to $850 per year.

Fresh Face